Weekly Update 5 - 18 - 2015

Weekly Wrap-Up / Outlook

The clock is ticking....

There are only two full weeks left before the scheduled end of the Spring Session and many, if not all, of the major issues remain unresolved including the budget and the Governor's "Turnaround Agenda". Although the state fiscal year does not end until June 30, any bill passed after May 31st needs a supermajority vote in order to go into effect immediately – which of course many of these big ticket items will.

House starts week with Committee of the Whole on Tort Reform

On Tuesday, the House convened a committee of the whole to hear over 5 hours of testimony on tort reform, one of the items of Governor Rauner's "Turnaround Agenda". Most of the discussion centered on expert testimony and victims stories. Noticeably absent was testimony from pro-reform business groups as well as from the Plaintiff's attorneys. This was the second subject matter hearing in as many weeks in the House. Last week they spent nearly 8 hours on testimony involving Workers' Compensation reform. Votes on both issues are expected in the upcoming week.

House takes two crucial votes

The House took votes on two crucial issues this week. First on Thursday, the House Speaker brought to the floor a version of Governor Rauner's "right-to-work" legislation. HB 1286 (Madigan), which was not drafted or endorsed by the Governor's office, would allow local jurisdictions to create "empowerment zones" within which an employee could not be required to pay "fair share" union dues. The bill was defeated 0-72-37, with all but 1 Republican voting "Present".

On Friday, the House took up an amendment to House Bill 695 (Franks) that would apply property tax caps to all jurisdictions, even home-rule governments, and then freeze the extensions permanently. Under the bill, the only way a local government (including schools) could increase local revenues would be through referendum. The amendment was adopted on a vote of 37-23-38. In addition to HB 695, three other property tax freeze bills were voted out of committee last week; HB 677, HB 696 and HB 699.
